FEATURES OF THE TRADING. HOUR BY HOUR.

10 TO 11.4

The market, after backing and filling Am for the past three days, demonstrated this morning in the two hours of business that its line of least resistance still is upward.

After a tame and irregular opening the bear crowd, still working on the theory that public buying has petered out and that the market.

the bear crowd, still working on the theory that public buying has petered out and that the market, because of technical conditions, is due for a healthy reaction, sold stocks short. But it soon developed that the market still enjoyed excellent buying power and stocks offered at recogning were quickly fered at recessions were quickly taken.

There was little in the way of news to influence trading, but most traders seemed satisfied that the market had not yet fully discounted the recent market improvement in business conditions.

This was especially evident in the copper shares, the steels and oil astocks. A number of the leading accoppers before the end of the first high for the year. The rise was at supported by increasing sales of auch high price for the year.

the metal at 14 cents a pound, a new high price for the year.

Bears attempted to depress steel shares because of general expectations that the unfilled tonnage statement of the United States Steel Corporation, to be issued after the close of the market would show a large decrease. In many guarters it was predicted that this decrease would amount to 150,000 tons or more. But steel stocks showed conspicuous strength, gains cade averaging about a point. averaging about a point,

What They Want Only in the Metropolis.

By Roger Batchelder.

Probably half of the "New Yorkers for a Day or Two" just now are women whose homes are in the subjurban districts or in towns and cities within nity miles of the metropolis.

They are the annual army of Christmas shoppers, an invasion warmiy welcomed by the merchants, theatre managers and hotelkeepers.

"Unused to accomplish all my Christmas shopping in a day's trip, remarked a woman guest at the Majest any other country during the Christmas shopping in a day's trip, remarked a woman guest at the Majestic, whose home is in Stamford, Conn., "but in recent years the crowds have so greatly increased, so many way."
